PHOTO SCAVENGER HUNT HOLIDAY HUNTS

Holidays are a great time to take photos. From decorated yards to school displays, it is easy to find items that fit with the theme of the holiday.

Celebration

Most people celebrate the holidays in a similar fashion. For Christmas you might want to have a picture of someone playing Santa or decorating a tree. For Independence Day, you might want pictures of people enjoying a picnic or holding fireworks. Use photos to define ways people celebrate and award bonus points for photos taken that show people celebrating that are not on the list.

Easter Eggs

Instead of gathering Easter eggs, take photos instead. For increased difficulty, make varying colors coordinate with the location it is hidden. So, if someone sees a yellow egg, it might be laying in the grass and everyone finds it . . . while the green eggs might be partially buried. You can put varying point amounts on the eggs and the colors will help you tally up points quickly.

Hidden Hearts

Diecut or purchase hearts. Hide them in a predefined area and let your scavengers go.

Represent

What elements visually represent a specific holiday? You can list the items and have your scavengers look for them or you can let them take pictures to show what element they feel represent the holiday. This is a great way to open discussions on different ways people celebrate holidays.

Tree Ornaments

People love to decorate their trees. From lights to ornaments, you'll see all sorts of tree decorations at varying times of the year. Instead of giving a list of types of ornaments or colors, look for the biggest, most colorful, most unusual, etc.
